“Come by yourselves to an out-of-the-way place and rest a little.”

Having returned from their mission throughout Galilee and reported to Jesus on the great missionary adventure they have initiated, the Twelve at last have vacation time. They are hardly back when the crowds start running. There is not a moment of peace! So they flee across the lake to withdraw with Jesus into a desert place. But it is futile, for the people are faster and are already there when they arrive. So Jesus, seized with pity for these sheep without a shepherd, begins to instruct them at length.

Their “vacation” was spoiled. On their return from their missionary travels. The disciples were no doubt looking forward to the rest they would find with their Master. He alone could give meaning to their lives, a depth to their words., a new dimension wo their most routine actions. But in refusing to send away the crowds even during this necessary respite, Jesus reveals to his followers what they seek from him. He offers no escape from the world. He offers only apprenticeship in God’s tenderness for his people. His love urges the apostles. Like their master, they agree to be at the mercy of all.

Does this mean there is no vacation for Christians? Not at all! We need rest, but there is no vacation from loving.
