Today is WORLD MISSION SUNDAY- Through your prayers and financial support you can directly benefit the Mission Church in places like the Central African Republic, Sri Lanka, Fiji and Tanzania, where young churches are growing but struggling with lack of resources for outreach to communities in need. MEASURE 106 – Vote YES to limit tax payer funding of Abortions:

Archbishop Sample, Bishop Liam Cary and Bishop Peter Smith fully support Measure 106 and encourage all Catholics to do the same.

The beneficiaries of the Church's action, in this type of ecclesiology, are not exclusively, or even primarily, the members of the Church itself. Rather they are all those brothers and sisters the world over, who hear from the church a word of comfort or encouragement, or who obtain from the Church a respectful hearing, or who receive from it some material help in their hour of need.

The church's mission, in the perspectives of this theology, is not primarily to gain new recruits for its own ranks, but rather to be of help to all people, wherever they are. The special competence of the Church is to keep alive the hope and aspiration of men for the Kingdom of God and its values. In the light of this hope the Church is able to discern the signs of the times and to offer guidance and prophetic critic. In this way the church promotes the mutual reconciliation of men and initiates them in various ways into the Kingdom of God.

Like other models of the Church, this servant ecclesiology has both strengths and weaknesses. Its strong claim to acceptance lies in the new situation in which the Church presently finds itself. Too much turned in upon itself, the Church has become increasingly concerned with its own internal affairs and correspondingly more estranged from modern civilization, to the point where communication between the Church and the world has become very difficult. This has brought about in the church a loss of numbers, a loss of vitality, and a loss of influence. The language and structures of the church have not kept pace with the development of human culture in general.
